About Us

The invaluable archives of the Cathedral of Mdina form part of the ecclesiastical archives of the Archdiocese of Malta. The repository comprises archival material dating back to the 11th century and incorporates three main collections, namely the administrative, historical and musical records of the Cathedral Chapter, a section of the Episcopal Archives and of the Inquisition in Malta.

Other archival collections and a reference library containing various types of publications are available for research.

Membership in the 'Friends of the Cathedral Archives Mdina, Malta' is open for free to anyone interested in the archives and its activities, notably researchers, supporters and those volunteers who want to be associated within the field of historic research and cultural activities. Members will receive news on the archives developments by means of our annual report. Also, news on future events, new archival acquisitions and details of any social events and further details can be found on our new official website.
